Host Family Doña Noemi, Turrialba, Costa Rica

Doña Noemi is a warm person who lives together with her daughter in the Turrialba town. They have basic, but clean rooms, a relax area, two bathrooms and access to wireless internet.

They have a garden in front of the house with a good chance of a daily morning sun. Inside you will find a kitchen, living and dining room. Also downstairs the other family members have their private rooms. It's a typical Costa Rican furnishing home, and so are the meals, well prepared with the right local taste. At the entrance of the property also other families have their houses.

The accommodation is situated in a quiet neighborhood in one of the Suburbs of San José close to a national park. The center of the city as well as other areas like the student neighborhood and the internship are one bus drive away. It takes you around 20 to 40 minutes depending of the traffic jams. The temperature is not too hot since you are around 1300 meters above sea level, but lovely. In daytime it is around 25 degrees and 15 at night.
